

FRIDAY EVENING APRIL 20, 1894.

SENATOR SMITH, of New Jersey, though elected as a democrat, intimates that he will vote against the proposed tariff bill if it shall contain an income tax provision, but for it without that provision, says his party has no right to tax the few for the benefit of the many. What else does the bill referred to do, even without the income tax provision? It protects the products of New England manufacturers with a duty of forty per cent, though there are few such manufacturers but millions of consumers of their products; collection it must be with all tariff bills. But the few referred to transfer that to the many consumers, so that in fact the tax is laid upon the many for the benefit of the few. A fundamental principle of wise taxation is that taxes should be laid on those upon whom they see the least burdensome, whether they be many or few, and certainly the change, with his untaxed millions in ent bonds, is better able to pay httax on his surplus income than the poor man is to pay a tax on the sell, sugar and clothing he has to buy for his wife and children in order that

UNDER the Constitution and laws General Coxev's army can not be exchaled from the Capitol, or even from the city of Washington, and yet under the same Constitution and laws it has be a excluded from various cities and towns on its way to Washington. Have the same Constitution and laws different meanings in different parts of the country? Senator Allen says the soldiers of the army referred to, if they choose, can pack the galleries, lobbies and carridors of the Capitol. But if reto do so, how could be and gues enter or leave that build-I how could legislation be effect-- in mediate presence and under the implied threat of such a crowd, and such a mob as it could be instantly disto by action adverse to its

FROM WASHINGTON.

Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.

Washington, April 20, 1894. The Army and Navy Register to-morrow will say: "In order to prevent the possibility of serious trouble we suggest to the President to immediatey order a sufficient number of regular troops into camp near this city to meet all possible emergencies. It is useless to disguise the fact that there is a menace to the Congress, to the President, and to the immense amount of public and private property in the District from the proposed assembly of perhaps several thousands of undisciplined men, now marching to a rendez vons in this city.

No personal solicitation in re spect of such application shall be made to any officer of the government.

Messrs. Marbury and Vincent of Al exandria, were at the Capitol this morning to see Congressman Meredith in reference to the bill proposing to disesablish the Alexandria customs house As the bill also proposes to abandon several other customs houses it will hardly pass. Then, too, it will have to go to the commerce committee of the House, of which Mr. George, Wise of Virginia, is chairman, and he is_not ikely to favor a bill to injure a Virgin a city. If either the customs house at Georgetown or Alexandria must be abolished, the one to go will probably be that at the former place.

Mr. Patterson of Tennessee, introduced in the House yesterday evening a bill amending the acts of Congress admit ting the southern States into the Union after the war, so as to repeal all the provisions in each relating to suffrage, schools and the right to hold office, and declaring that each State in the Union has all the rights, privileges and powers of any of the others.

Mr. Boen of Minnessota, introduced in the House to-day a resolution that the Secretary of War be ordered to pro-

BUILDING ASSOCIATIONS TAXED .- A aw was passed by the General Assembly of Virginia, March 5th last, impos ing a tax on building and loan associations. The specific license tax upon every such company or association for the privilege of doing business in the State shall be fifty dollars, provided the apital of such company actually paid o, whether from paid up stock or partially paid stock, is not less than $25 000. When the capital paid in is from $25, 000 to $50,000 the tax is $75; from $50 450,000, $125; from $150,000 to $200 000, $150; from $200,000 to $350,000, If the capital paid in is $400,000 the tax is $250, but on capital exceeding $400,000 the tax shall be $50 for each additional $100,000 thereof. It is the duty of each association on the 1st of April of each year, or within ten days thereafter, to make a report in writing under oath of its chief accounting officer or agent to the Commissioner of Revenue for the district in which the principal office or agent is situated, of the amount of capital of said association as provided in this act. A city or corporation where such associations exist may also impose a tax on them but not greater than the amount of State tax.

A company doing business on purely mutual plan, and whose business is con fined solely to the city or county where organized, the tax, regardless of amount of capital, shall be $50.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.-A terrible louble murder of two children by their father, who afterward committed suicide, occurred at Niobe, on the north-ern edge of Wood county, W. Va., Wednesday. The murderer and sui-cide was Floyd Raidabaugh, an indusrious and well-to-do citizen, who had always stood well in the community Mrs. Raidabaugh left home Wednesday morning to vist her mother, three miles away, leaving her husband at nome with the childrn, one eighteen months and the other three years. After her departure Raidabaugh took the two children out to the barn and hanged them both to rafters. He then re turned to the house and wrote a note o his wife, telling what he had done and of his purpose to kill himself and not like him. He left the note on the table, and returning to the barn hung himself beside the two children. When Mrs. Raidabaugh came home she found

Congressman Meredith on Mr. Wana-

In the U.S. House of Representatives last Wednesday evening Mr. Meredith said:

Mr. Chairman, looking upon the gentleman from New York [Mr. Quigg], I am reminded of one of the sweet singers of Israel. When I see his hair parted in the middle and his countenance irradiated with that smile which reminds me of the cherubim, I am not surprised that he should make the speech that has just been delivered; but I want to say to him that when he has has been here a few years longer he will perhaps have learned that this is not the place for cherubim and seraphim. [Laughter.] Mr. Chairman, the gentlemen who have discussed this question have drifted away from the subject under consideration, and I have simply arisen for the purpose of replying to what has been said by the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. Adams] who has lauded the late Postmaster-General Wanamaker and given him an advertisement for which I have no doubt Mr. John Wanamaker will make him a very handsome present.

In reply to what has fallen from the gentleman in the way of laudation of that "good man," Cheap John Wanamaker, of the city of Philadelphia, late Postmaster General of the United States, who contributed so much money for the purpose of "frying the fat" out of certain people and debauching the voters of Pennsylvania and of other States of this Union in the interest of Mr. Benjamin Harrison and his party and leaving Mr. Van Alen out of this question-a gentleman who needs no defense at my hand and no defense at the hands of the democratic party-because his case has been passed upon by the Senate, I desire to say that the very charges which have been brought here against the appointment of Mr. Van Alen can be brought with much more force against the late Postmaster General, whom the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. Adams) had lauded to the skies-that man who was for four years the Postmaster General of the United States and who used his office, as I believe, for the purpose of advertising his wares and merchandise.

Now, let me say I come from a rural district in which, in many cases, there were not republicans living near enough to the postoffice to hold those positions and under Mr. John Wanamaker those little postoffices in our country were farmed out to republicans who lived miles and miles away. I wrote a letter to Mr. Wanamaker-I wish I had a copy of it here-in which I stated that the people who received their mails did not care particularly who might hold the postoffice; that they wanted honest men to distribute their mails; they wanted men who, when letters were received, would try to deliver them to the proper persons; and that the theory of this Government and of the Postoffice Department was not, in my judgment, to give postoffices to any particular party or any particular persons, but that persons should be selected with he intelligence and honesty to discharge the duties incumbent upon them

I miles away from the office of unanimous consent that his remarks as which he was postmaster; yet the position was rented or leased out to some one else, and the emoluments of the office were divided between the man who was acting as postmaster and the real postmaster.

I say that under the administration of Wanamaker, this merchant of Phliadelphia, who has had himself advertised here by the gentleman from his State, there never was such mismanagement in the history of this country as existed in postal matters in the district from which I come; and the reason was that the men who were appointed postmasters lived miles and miles away rom their offices, and in many cases did not receive their mail at the offices of which they were postmasters, but rented out the positions and divided the proceeds with such persons as they | when he took it from the water. could get to perform the duties of the BLIND TIGERS OPEN UP .- The news of the handing down of the dispensary law decision by the State Supreme Court was received in Charleston, S. C., yesterday shortly after ten o'clock. An hour later upwards of 200 blind tigers had miraculously recovered their eyesight and were in full blast. Many of them hung out signs inviting the passersby to "walk in and have one with the house," and people were by no means slow to accept the invitation. There was no lack of stimulants in the city, as an immense stock had been laid in when the dispensary constabulary were engaged in the Darlington

The general impression is that Gov. Tillman will call an extra session of the General Assembly to pass a new law and then take it up to the State Supreme Court, which on July 1st will e Tillmanite in politios by the qualifi cation of Justice E. B. Gary. What will happen in the meantime, however, is difficult to say. Since the Darling-ton episode the whiskey constabulary have been comparatively inactive. No raids of either stores or private residences have been attempted anywhere in the State. The force of constabulary in Charleston, formerly numbering from fifteen to twenty men, all armed with revolvers and Winchester rifles, has been reduced to three, who confine their attentions to the railroad desary law went into operation on July 1st, 1892. The difference is, however, that last night mixed drinks and other liquors were passed over the bar openly. The action of the Governor is watched with great anxiety.

FIFTY-THIRD CONGRESS.

SENATE. Mr. Sherman, a member of the committee on foreign relations, introduced, explained, and had passed by the Senate a bill to amend the first section of the Behring Sea act of the sixth instant, so as to read that it shall not be within a zone of 60 geographical miles around the Pribyloff islands inclusive of the territorial waters.

Mr. Gordon offered a resolution in report a bill to repeal the law authorizing a ten per cent, tax on State bank issues and stated some points in support of the proposition. The first of these was that the repeal of that tax would do more than any other possible legislation to bring quiet to the country, to settle the disturbing financial controversy and to relieve the question of its committee.

Another question of personal privilege arising out of the condemnation by the Minnesota democracy of certain Senators for their supposed position on the tariff bill was brought up by Senator McPherson, whose name was mentioned in that connection. He quoted from

New York evening paper and said: "I had supposed that every Senator on this floor, every citizen of my State, every representative of a newspaper in the Senate gallery knew full well that, since the tariff bill has been reported to the Senate, so long as it remained an improvement on the McKinley bill in respect to custom duties, I had an-nounced my intention to support it to the full. I did not suppose that any body was in doubt about that. The correspondent of the paper in question was early informed in regard to my position and purpose. He admitted to me very recently that he had so ad-vised the publication office in New York. I have no complaint to make against this wanton, deliberate misrepresentation from such a source. Yet take this occassion to remind that jour nal that it is far more honorable to tell the truth than to circulate falsehood. HOUSE.
